

Congratulations to Mat Corby for being selected as the JCU Service Member of the Year. It was apparent that he put a lot of time and effort into prepping for the board.

Once everyone got back from leave we jumped headfirst into training by spending a few days running through drills to knock the dust off and refine our skills. It definitely paid off because at the end of the week, everyone was working together like a well oiled machine. We also took some time to get everyone to the pool to test their swimming abilities. The whole troop owes Josh and Blake a big thanks for grabbing Tim as he did his impression of the Titanic. Speaking of Blake, he will be heading off to the Navy's Senior Enlisted course, I know that he is ready for the course; I just hope they are ready for him. Lastly, on a more serious note, I want to say thank you to Carlos for everything he has done for the Troop. He will be moving on to work in a J6 position. Just keep in mind that your departure is not official until the Troop sends you off properly, remember "it's all about the Joes".

Above: Blake Schimmel pays up on a bet that went wrong for siding with Notre Dame. Just guessing that won't happen again

I can not say enough or put together the proper words to truly express how awesome everyone in B-Troop is doing right now. What I can say is that it is getting very tiresome that everywhere I go, I have to listen to how awesome this guy is, how amazing that guy is...blah, blah, blah. If I did not know better, I would think that the guys were paying people to say nice things about them. I have seen it first hand though and they have earned every great word said about them with their hard work and professionalism. So far I have been able to get out and see the vast majority of the guys. Everyone looks great and are in the eating healthy, getting exercise, and in that general mode of losing weight.

We are quickly approaching the Holiday Season. It is strongly encouraged that everyone spend the holiday's with family and friends. Take this opportunity to re-connect with those that you have not stayed in touch with and have a memorable end to 2010. It is important that the spouses and loved ones that are deployed stay in touch and involved as much as possible during this time of year as well. While it is difficult for everyone back home, it is also difficult for those that are difficult. Stay involved and continue to be a part of the family.

~ Jay

OK, this time I promise to be short. I always say it, but never follow through.

C-Troop didn't really have much this month that is really "News Letter" worthy. We have spent pretty much the entire time sitting in training of some sort. Between the Automation training and SHF training that we have been doing, I have been pretty lonely up here in the office. Thanks to all the people in the unit from S&T and the master guns section that helped put this all together.

If we weren't in class we were preparing for the Unit's largest training exercise ever. There seems to be a million things to do and not much time to get it all going. But, in true C-Troop fashion, I know we will pull it off without a hitch.

As far as schools and promotions. Edwin "Cake" Robles came back from a grueling seven weeks at Fort Gordon, where I am sure he taught more than he learned. Somehow, he did not get Distinguished Honor Graduate, but did come home with the Iron Sergeant and was on the Commandant's List for academics. Good Job Cake.

In between all the classes and training, we have done our second planning session for the Jingle Stick and things are sure to come together again. We are shooting for a three-peat on this as well. We will have to work extra hard since it is right as we all take off on our pre-deployment leave and I am sure the target is on our back for this. We will be ready!

Last but not least, I would like to throw a quick reminder of upcoming events in the unit. There are several command sponsored events on the horizon. Several of which require RSVPs, or a little cash. Beat up your significant others to ensure they RSVP and get the money in for the 10K, and the 30th anniversary events. I am sure everyone that attends will definitely have a great time.

OK, not as short as I thought it would be. Sorry. Talk to you next month.

~ Millsy

Well, I apologize for lying last month. I truly thought that Summer was gone, but for whatever reason, it is keeping a good grip on us this year. With this weather, it is hard to believe that the holidays are right around the corner. Before your bowl of Halloween candy is empty your kids will be writing their Christmas wish lists – Goody will be taking Christmas donations for all fifteen of his children. I’m kidding! He only has fourteen.

Congrats are in order for MSG Woosley, a.k.a. “Big Jon” for his WELL deserved promotion last month! Thanks to his family and friends for allowing

D Troop to celebrate with him and partake in the delicious food that Jon paid for. We can’t forget about Chas, he graduated the Army Airborne course. He did it without any broken bones, bonus. Good job Chas!

I would bore you again with the gigantic list of tasks that our troop has been tackling in the last month but I am sure you already know this because of the late work nights. (Recruiting and supporting communications to other organizations.) It is no doubt that these late nights have paid huge dividends. We definitely have the most skilled communicators around. But again, you already know this and we thank you for the continued support that you provide. Your support is the largest contributor to our success, no doubt!

On a quick note, we are planning a D Troop date night in December. We will send out the information within the next week or so to allow you to plan for childcare, etc. Michelle, we are working our tails off to make sure that you can attend the D Troop date night with Kyle— assuming that you want to go with Kyle, wink, wink. Lastly, we would like to welcome Kevin Hudson back from his trip and congratulate our Service Members of the Quarter (Duncan, Jett, Goody) and Sailor of the Year (Amador Avila)! Not only did Amador win Sailor of the Year, he also found out that him and Lisa are expecting their second child!

~ Jack

Men and Women, first off I would like to thank the wives for taking care of their households while their significant others were out getting smart in testing software. Hopefully they came back and told you how good the classes were that we attend. They were awesome, we learned so much we could not wait to get back to work and implement what we had learned. Since we have been back it has been pretty busy around here. We have had to work some long hours, even a Saturday in there. Maybe one of these days we can give our guys some quality time to hang out on the recliner and watch TV, or maybe do some chores if need be.

We are welcoming back Mike from his rotation, he did great things while on rotation. We sent Sergio up to replace him. Hopefully he continues to run because the 50 Miler is coming up very quick. Team IO is prepping for the 50 Miler. This is going to be a very tough but great experience. The guys will enjoy it after they complete it. It is a big accomplishment. Dave, Chief, and Brian are doing well in class. I would be willing to bet that they want to be done with the class more than we want them to be done with the class. Luckily they are over half way done. We look forward to them getting done. Hope all have a great November. Thanks for you time.

~ Bryan

October is known for change: from the color of leaves to the cool fall breeze; one thing that remains constant is the rapid pace and diversity of G-Troop. Unfortunately, we had one leaf fall from the family tree in an emotional Retirement Ceremony. In only 7 seconds we all witnessed the first tremble and crackle of John Hickey’s voice as we observed a tearful yet joyous occasion in the retirement of one of DOD’s Finest Communicators. Great job John! We wish you well in your future endeavors. All of our prayers go out to Morgan Miles as she was somehow coerced into exchanging vows with Mat Heist. Somehow Mat continues to overwhelm us all the uncanny ability to achieve the unachievable. Congratulations Mat and Morgan!! Randy Amsler is enjoying some well deserved leave with the family after enduring through a long and always challenging short tour. Enjoy your leave, recharge your batteries and it’s ok to come off of the wall Randy! Let’s not forget our deployed members as we approach this holiday season. Pete” Repete” Nunnery, Chuck Churchwell, Marty “the Mad Man” Holcomb, Jeff “the Hob” Ingraham, Fabian “Karate Kid” Robles, and Dominic “the Bouncer” Arduini are all doing awesome jobs in the Systems Control Center. I would also like to welcome the families of Anthony Melby, Chuck Brandt, Tammy Sprague, Ramsey Brown and Darren Thornton to the team. Congratulations to Veronica Zendrosky on her promotion to Gunnery Sergeant. Thanks to everyone who shared laughs and took the time to attend the Troop’s Costume party. While the rest of us were hard at work, John Mosley was on vacation in Raleigh supporting the USASOC conference. Tammy also took her Camaro on a joy ride to DC to get some much needed Security + training. Hopefully she isn’t as stingy with sharing her knowledge as she is with sharing her car. Be expecting an email that will focus on consolidating our efforts to send our deployed members a Holiday package and also to plan for the annual Jingle Stick competition. We would like to express the utmost gratitude to our families for their support and patience. Your sacrifices have not gone unnoticed.

~ Travis

Delivering the Message

All good things eventually come to pass and it is now my turn. I will be turning over the Troop to Master Chief Mike Addaman on the 23rd of Nov. I just want to take the opportunity to convey my sincere thanks to all of the men and women of M Troop and to the families who have been so supportive over the last year and change. In my time in leading this troop I have been truly blessed to work alongside the best people I have interacted with over my entire military career. We are indeed a unique construct unlike any other. We have made great strides together during my tenure and I know that will continue when I am no longer around. I have never seen the amount and quality of work that we do accomplished anywhere else. It is obviously a testament to the dedication and commitment instilled in each and every one of you and I have you and those who support you away from work to thank with the utmost sincerity. Shelly and I both are grateful for everything you have done for us. For me, I hope that I have left a positive impression on each of you. JCU and the Command would not be the place it is without you – So for that you should be proud. Whether they know it or not, the free world has you to thank. I'm not leaving the unit just yet so I will still be around; however, I am going to miss the daily grind inside the "M Troop Machine".

~ Stacey

This month marks yet another rare occasion in the Executive Communications detachment history; for the second time, this year, all members are home (at least for a week). We welcome home Tigo and Rob. For the guys, this means Thanksgiving dinner with their families (I wonder what delicious delectable's Tigo will be baking this year... um um um). For me, this means Jimmy and Mark have other people in the office to conspire with; I had better hide all label makers and secure the screws in my desk chair. I'm sure it will be an interesting and fun time, as they prepare for future endeavors. All of the guys have been doing great things, forward as well as in the rear and for that I say "Thanks and keep up the good work!" Now, let's get to work.

Answer to last months RETRO JCU ? (did you guess correctly?)

Last month's RETRO picture is none other than MSG Scott Knox, M-Troop Motor Pool NCOIC. He said this picture was taken when he was an 18 year old Senior at the El Capitan High School "Vaqueros" in Lakeside, California. Thanks To Scott's sister Monique for posting this picture on Facebook and for allowing us to share a little piece of Scott's life with us.
