Message from the Commander

JCU Team- First, I want to say thanks for all that each one of you do to make JCU truly the best organization anyone could ever hope to serve in. It's coming up on my "three month anniversary" back in the command and Jana and I couldn't be more proud of what the service members and their families contribute to making this organization what it is. I just recently returned from approximately a month overseas visiting many of our deployed unit members and those they support. It was amazing to see how many folks went out of their way to thank me for the contributions made by JCU day in and day out. I actually had to make a special folder in my email inbox just to keep track of all the praise that I have the privilege of accepting on your behalf. Again, my deepest thanks and admiration.

Fall is upon us and the unit is busier than ever. As of this writing I THINK most of A Troop has finally returned home and should be well on their way to some well deserved leave. Frank and the folks of A Troop left a high standard for Jay and the B Troop team but I heard that B Troop was a fairly competitive bunch and will not be outdone easily. Of course the specialty troops continue to be the unsung heroes day in and day out both back here in the States as well as deployed. For most (myself included) fall is a great time of year because we can finally get the kids back in school after they climbed the walls most of the summer.

Fall also means it is time to ramp up the JCU activities. We have the Joint Special Operations 10K race on 10 November and we will need a lot of volunteers to make this years' run the best one on record. 1SG Spencer has promised excellent running weather and an easy route so if you are not volunteering, come join us on the run. The 10K run serves as one of our key fundraising activities as we prepare for the JCU 30th Anniversary in December. Mark your calendars now as it will truly be a great event. We also have a very large JCU contingent going to run the JFK 50 miler this year (some that didn't even know they were running.....) as we represent the unit in its annual revalidation of pain and suffering.

JSOC recently hosted their newcomers'

orientation and I hope new members were able to attend. If you were unable, I would encourage all to attend at the earliest opportunity as it is an excellent venue to learn about how the organization runs and what makes it so unique. Our SOROC class is in full swing with graduation expected in December. I have been told we will have at least 20 personnel in the January SOROC class and 36 in the July SOROC class so the need to ensure new families are integrated into the unit will be more and more critical.

It is unlikely that the pace in JCU will ever slow down, and we need every member of the organization in order to be successful. Take this time before the weather starts getting bad to do those odd jobs you've been putting off around the house, get the car in order, and for all you motorcycle riders—be especially careful as there are nearly 50,000 Soldiers back on Fort Bragg for the first time in years. Don't hesitate to call Steve or I if you have any questions or concerns. It's an honor to serve with you. DoD's Finest.

~ Sam Anderson

By now everyone should be taking some well deserved time off. Either recharging their batteries for the upcoming training cycle or working through the "honey-do" lists that have built up while we were away. Either way, enjoy the time, each of you has absolutely earned the time off. Expect the next few weeks to be fast paced as we polish up the troop's skills, then take a break during the holidays.

There are also quite a few personnel changes happening throughout the troop during the next few weeks. Danny has already moved to S&T, Carlos will be moving to a desk job (at least that's what he thinks) in J-6 and Tim will try to fill Carlos' shoes. Meanwhile Scott will be stepping into Tim's old position and Rudy will help out as the training NCO for awhile. With all these moves it's a good thing we have the quality of folks that we do, I'm sure the Troop won't miss a beat. On a lighter note, Congrats goes to Vic Vinnedge. He was finally added to a list he should have been on a long time ago, the TSgt promotion list! Now it's just a matter of waiting for his number to come up. Also, Gus completed airborne school at Fort Benning, I'm sure that it was a trip he won't forget anytime soon, and now he's convinced he joined the wrong service. Good job Gus!

Lastly, as fall approaches there are plenty of events on the horizon, the SOCA 10K it's guaranteed to rain, the Children's holiday party where you are bound to see some of the guys on Santa's lap and the 30th Anniversary Celebration in December. If you need any information for any on these events contact 1SG Spencer or myself.

~ Frank

It is always nice to pass off the pagers. Mainly, because it is almost always followed with a little bit of leave. So this month's input will be relatively short since all of us were gone for a few days.

Even though we did get a few days off, that doesn't mean the world stopped turning here. Jory took a little trip to support some folks getting ready for deployment. From what I gathered, he lived on a beach and played on a boat. I am fairly certain there is more to it than that but will never admit it. Brent also got to get a stamp on his passport as he traveled the world supporting a few customers and Troy also made it back this month from his trip across the pond.

Ryan and Cake are still away learning about the Marine Corps and Army. I'm sure they will both come back Honor Graduates of each of their NCO professional development schools.

The rest of us have been working here getting some outstanding medical training, maintenance training from some of our M-Troopers and a few internal classes as well. Next month the race to get all of our training in prior to deployment steps up a pace or two. We will have almost everyone in the troop in some sort of training either sharpening their SHF or automations skills. It will be a very busy month that will have everyone sitting for hours in some sort of classroom then following it up by a hands on exercises in our training lab. I am sure everyone is excited.

Since there isn't a place to list errors in the news letter, I will just put a comment here. Last month I said "third times a charm" in reference to Jory's Jumpmaster graduation. It was only his second...oops.

Talk to you next month!
~ Millsy

Weather getting cooler can only mean that the 10K is getting closer

It's that time of year again. Time for the 14th Annual Joint Special Operations 10K Run / 5K Walk. This years event will be held on Wednesday 10 November at McKellars Lodge. Race packet pick-up starts at 0530, the race starts at 0700. If interested in helping the morning of the race at the packet pick-up area, please contact 1SG Spencer for more details. Last year we had 480 registered participants, we hope to exceed that total this year. The event is sponsored by the Special Operations Communicators Association. Registrations can be done either via mail or on www.active.com. A separate flyer will go out through the e-mail channels. Hope to see you all out there.

Fall has arrived and it's getting cooler, finally! Not that we don't like the summer, it's just been too HOT! Alongside the start of school, D-Troop has remained knee-deep in our training cycle. I was hoping it would slow down, but we seem to be steadily engulfed in more and more training and it has undoubtedly produced the best communicators in DOD the world! Chris Cunningham is enjoying life at the Advanced course, learning some high speed Marine marching with the Cajun style cadence. I'm sure he's showing off those cool uniforms they have. We've had several people go to and graduate Basic Airborne School. Congrats to Jason Benavides, and Tim Duncan! Chas Scott is in his final week!! "Feet and Knees together!" That's only the beginning. We also had Jerome Kusy promoted to CHIEF! Congratulations on your well deserved promotion. It was a very cool promotion ceremony put on by the Chiefs of JCU. Even though we've been getting needed schools and well deserved promotions, we have also had time to participate in command training exercises, Jumpmaster courses, vehicle validations, operations checks, HAZMAT certifications, unit sponsored training and lastly...time to train other organizations on networking. WHEW! I would also like to say hello to Kyle Roscoe, and Kevin Hudson who are both currently deployed. We miss you guys and hope to see you real soon! Didn't I tell you we were still busy? Congrats to Jumpmasters Josh Smith, Marcus Jett, and Derrick White! Congrats AMCO graduates Jason Benavides, Amy Smith, Julian Walle, and Josh Morgan! To the families, as always, we appreciate your support to this command, your family member, and our nation.

~ Jack

Guys and Gals, We would like to welcome back Dan from his rotation. Mike Crain went up to relieve him. Now Dan can stop using the excuse and get ready for the 50 miler. Everyone is working hard to get in shape for this very difficult event. As the spouses of E-Troop know already I have taken their spouses away for a week to do some excellent training. We have been wanting to get this training for awhile now. It was definitely worth the wait. The training was worth every penny. The E-Troop spouses should be happy for their spouses considering they are leaps and bounds better testers than they were. I would like to say thanks for letting them go. We did a survey on the work from home program, and they didn't get very much work done in that time so we wont be trying that again.

Brian, Scuba Steve, and Dave Miller are having the time of their life in the class. We can't wait for them to graduate and get to work. There are alot of things we need help with. Maybe with their help we can start getting the guys home on time. Thanks for all of the support.

~Bryan

Finally Fall has arrived...we were beginning to wonder if it was truly Fall yet. We hope everyone had a great September and has settled into the school routine. We are saying farewell to John Hickey and Casey Mues, who have started their transition into civilian life. We welcome back Veronica Zendrosky from maternity leave and keep Noe Abad in your thoughts while he recovers from a pretty serious jump injury. We have welcomed Leon Hamilton and Chris Richter back and sent Pete Nunnery and Fabian Robles out to herd the cats in the Systems Control Center. Darren Thornton has returned from his one year Navy tour requirement and will no doubt resume doing all the great things for the command that he was doing before he left. We have continued to challenge John Mosley, Rich McAlister, Mike Williams and Max Fermin by expecting them to learn incredible amounts of information in a very short time during multiple training courses. I am sure they are up to the challenge and will come back and spread their knowledge to the rest of us. The beginning of the holiday season is just around the corner, so make sure that you and your families and friends are taking advantage of the time and spending quality time together.

~ Bryan

Summer is officially over...Happy Fall from M-Troop! Over the past month the men and women of M-Troop have been extremely busy, not only with day-to-day operations, but assisting in a smooth transition between fiscal years that is happening now. As usual our M-Troop professionals are doing great things, and making the unit look good! As we press forward to the Holiday season please take a moment to be thankful for all we have, and for our fellow unit members currently on "extended TDY".

The Electronics Maintenance Shop has had an extremely busy September. From Command Recruiting, to schools, TDY's, and leave, they continue to keep everything balanced and make things happen. During the past month the guys on the shop floor attended several different training courses in order to brush-up on some of the new equipment, which ultimately brings new capabilities to DoD's finest. The packages keep coming-in and going-out in fine fashion with the M-Troop seal of approval. Their meticulous attention to detail coupled with their constant professionalism is a true testament of the diverse functions of this organization. You can't touch a piece of JCU gear anywhere in the world that the shop floor hasn't helped develop, build, install, and maintain. Steve P. and Eric are still currently out on extended TDY, taking care of business and doing the unit proud. Jeff recently departed to provide them some much needed relief. The Motor Pool is continually expanding and growing. Scott and the crew continue to amaze and impress with their capabilities and the incredible support they provide. The projects and day-to-day maintenance of the Unit's Motor fleet provide them with a new set of challenges each day. The cradle-to-grave process, through fabrication and maintenance, is extremely unique and enhances this command immensely! The Motor Pool team continues to train and prepare for an upcoming maintenance trip. Carleen and Jesse continue to manage chaos within the Configuration Management Section; juggling the ever growing number of pieces of equipment that require mission critical upgrades and support. They truly make it look very transparent to day to day operations making everyone's job that much easier.

LRS/Supply is in the process of yet another year-end close out for FY10: busy, busy, busy. They continue to operate like a well-oiled machine; providing day-to-day customer support, all while conducting year-end operations. I must say that the total team effort has led to one of the smoothest closeouts I have witnessed in the past 17 years. Penny and Earle just returned from an undisclosed location, assisting the troops with one of the most successful turnovers in unit history. A-Troop brought their (A) game, thanks for your support! The Olimpia, Mike, and Mike show stepped up to the plate while the shop was under manned and made things happen. Their professionalism and "can-do" attitude never ceases to amaze me. Their meticulous attention to detail on equipment accountability and the ever growing list of hand-receipts and new equipment is truly more an art than it is science...can't fly without supply!! Congratulations are in order for the following: MSgt Jerry Dover promoted to SMSgt. Alright...enough rambling from me, 1SG said to keep it short.

~ Todd

Hello everyone,

Once again this has been a busy month for SOROC class 02-10. The month began with the class taking part in communications exercise 1. Everyone did a great job passing their first test. As the month is closing, the class is once again back in communication exercise 2 preparing for the next test. The SOROC class wants to send congratulations to their classmate Mike Larson on the birth of his first child Amelia Janelle Larson.

As we look back thru the history of the unit, this will definitely be a month that will reshape the unit. After a month of pacing back and forth, with great debate, and wondering if he would be rehired, Ken Garrison has officially taken over the unit air program. For his first official act, this month's jump was cancelled. Thanks for taking care of us Ken! Welcome home to Paul Shedlock and welcome DJ Holly to the SOROC Cadre.

S&T would like to welcome Danny Knouse and his family to the office. He will be filling the roll as the next SOROC TAC. First Danny will be taking some much deserved time with the family. We would like to wish farewell to SGM Ronnie Watts. He has shaped many of the best communicators in the unit and we would like to thank him for everything he has done for each and every one of us. We wish the best to him and his family.

~ Stan

JCU set for the 48th Annual JFK-50 Mile Ultra-Marathon

This year's event will take place on November 20, 2010 in Hagerstown, MD. This year we have 28 JCU members participating and another 6 friends of JCU. This marks the largest registered JCU participants total to date. There were several others that waited a little too long to get their applications in and did not make the list. We have 13 families going with their runners this year. They will be there providing course support and generally laughing at their spouses. Our very own Josh Smith set the standard last year by smashing the JCU record time with a very impressive 8:37:27 and an overall placing of 140 out of over 1,000 runners. A lot of folks are actually training this year and I expect that record will not stand. Josh said "Take it if you can" I look forward to this year and hope that it proves to be a very rewarding, painful, but good time. Good luck and happy trails.

IT COULD BE A MOTHER, A SISTER, A WIFE, OR YOU!
OCTOBER IS BREAST CANCER AWARENESS MONTH

As a Military wife, I am proud of my selection as one of five 2010/11 Pink Together Survivor Ambassadors. What does this mean to many of you? It's a strong group of ladies on the move to help promote Breast Cancer awareness. Education is the goal of the team. During this month part of our effort will be to share with thousands of you, not only our personal stories of survival, but to enforce the need for well-care and the importance of listening to our bodies. The value of yearly check-ups, healthy nutrition and exercise is critical to a healthy body.

With this appointment I am extending a hand to others who are experiencing this illness or family members in need of support through this difficult time. Families should not have to face Breast Cancer alone. There is encouragement and support very close by. Join me at www.pinktogether.com, our online community providing personal connections, where you will find inspiring stories of courage, faith, and hope.

You can help fight Breast Cancer if you read our stories and send a virtual flower or make a comment. You will be promoting an interest in finding a cure.

As I embark on this journey to share, there is life after Breast Cancer. My hope is to touch as many ladies and men who may not have been as lucky as I have been to have the wonderful support system that was available to me. I am looking forward to events and group gatherings during my year as Ambassador so I can have the opportunity to help enhance positive thoughts of hope.

Answer to last months RETRO JCU ? (did you guess correctly?)

Last month's RETRO picture is none other than SSgt Vincent Olshove from M-Troop. The picture was taken in 1986 at age 5 in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. He added that he was pumping gas at a Shell gas station owned by his grandfather, talk about child labor laws! Vince had fun, but his customers got shafted because he could not reach the windows to clean them. Guess it was half-service instead of full-service. Even though he was born when some in the unit were graduating high school, he said this was a time when guys that worked in gas stations had names like Shorty. Thank you Vince for sharing a piece of your life with us.
